

Jasmine Kee's Bio:

Hello! My name is Jasmine Kee and I am a junior at IWU currently studying a major in finance and a minor in health. This is my first year working as an SST (student success tutor) but I'm really excited to help any and all students on effectively building and identifying their strongest academic skill sets. I enjoy helping my peers with unlocking their full potential in effective note taking, combating procrastination, to the complexities of presentation confidence and time management.

My primary goal when I work with my peers as a student success tutor is to emphasize the importance of building and honing one's academic skills, as it can guide and support you at college all the way to a professional work environment! I like doing this work because I love to see my peers learn from new habits and methods, and in doing so also witness the growing confidence and improvement in students from gaining a new skill set. I have also taken classes with Willis, Brun, Burke, Oberg, Horwitz, and Chapman just to name a few!

Although I am currently a finance major, I applied to Illinois Wesleyan as a biochemistry major (fun fact). I mention this to signify that change is a common friend in college, and to always welcome each challenge and hurdle that may come your way. In doing so you can find new strengths and opportunities you would've never known existed. And always remember, there are many sources of aid on campus, like our tutoring services to guide you along the way :)
